

Instructions:

This box may only be opened within the year stipulated on its outside by its owner. The owner must then carry out the following instructions:

1. The owner of the box must transcribe the first headline of the day in the first newspaper he/she reads onto the left hand section of the postcard where the message is usually written.
2. The postcards must then be addressed and sent to the following people with whatever means of postage is used at the time of the box's opening:
  - I. The head of the nearest school in the vicinity of where the owner of the box lives.
  - II. The favourite artwork of the owner of the box.
  - III. The owner of the box

This box and the contents of it make up part of the artwork 'At The Moment (Rome)', made by the artist Ruth Sacks in 2010.

The artwork consists of a series of 5 x wooden boxes of the same size, labelled with the following years: 2014, 2034, 2059, 2259 and 2509. 2 versions of the series exists, one made in Rome and one in Brussels.

Inside each box are 3 x postcards that depict the city in which the work was made (Rome or Brussels). The same 3 different types of postcard are in each box. The postcards were all bought by the artist in 2010.
